GATHERING OF CORNELL GRADUATES.

THE ANNUAL DINNER OF THE ALUMNI TO BE

arations for the annual dinner of the Cornell iversity Club, which will take place on Friday this week at the Waldorf-Astoria, are now practically complete, and it is thought that it will be the most successful, as well as important, gather-ing of Cornell men ever held in this city. Cornell's recent aquatic success, and the fact that the club is about to occupy permanent quarters, have ended to arouse the interest of the alumni. In der to give a more representative character to dons have been invited, and among those who have secepted invitations to be present and speak are Mexander, of Princeton, and Severo Mallett-Propresentative from Columbia will be present.

ornell will be represented by President J. G. churman Dean Horatio S. White and Professor endrix, ex-Governor Cornell, Justice Wilmot M. mith and the Rev. Dr. Minot J. Savage. An unsually large delegation of the Cornell Glee Club ill come on from thaca to furnish music for the ceasion. Dr. L. L. Seaman, president of the club, ill preside, and it is understood that he will make a announcement of unusual interest to the colge world, although its nature is to be carefully litheld until the occasion itself.

lege world, although its nature is to be careful, withheld until the occasion itself.

It is requested by the secretary, S. S. Slater, No. 22 William-st., that tickets (Se each) be procured at once, as it may not be possible to make preparations at the last moment for any considerable number of latecomers. Box tickets for women can be procured of C. J. Shearn, No. 166 Montague-st., Etrockiva.

HEADS FALL IN KEATING'S DEPARTMENT.

THE COMMISSIONER OF HIGHWAYS ASSIGNS LACK

ommissioner Keating of the Department of Highways yesterday announced these removals in Borough of Brooklyn: C. W. Ashby, assistant engineer, salary, $1,300; R. D. Chase, assistant engineer, $4 a day; B. F. Latting, assistant engineer, 11,200; W. M. Osborn, leveller, 11,000; S. P. Bradley, rodman, $2.50 a day; C. P. Pray, assistant Bradley, rodman, $2.50 a day; C. P. Pray, assistant chemist, £2 a day; S. C. Wiggins, clerk, £1.000; John Kenny, foreman of street repairs, £4 a day; P. J. Madden, inspector of street repairs, £4 a day; Anthony Gannon, laborer, £1.50 a day, and M. Kehoa, laborer, £1.50 a day. The reason for the removals, Commissioner Keating said, was lack of work. The salary of J. A. Schilling, clerk, has been reduced from £1.50 to £1.600 a year. The salary of Nelson P. Lewis, engineer, has been fixed at £4.500 a year.

foggy kind, which, except for a few days, seems to be the nearest approach to winter New-Yorkers is probably not welcome except to the thinly clad, to whom cold means always bitter suffering. Even to many of these, however, the snow brings temporary employment, physical discomfort being forgotten in the unusual felicity of $1 75 a day.

Yesterday afternoon the sun came out and dispelled the mist, but neither then nor on any previous day of the last fortnight have its rays been sufficiently powerful to dry up the mud which makes walking tiresome. The Tribune has told of the paralysis which seems to have attacked the Street Cleaning Department. It is only necessary to add that there are no indications at present that any serious effort is being made to clean the Commissioner McCartney must still be streets. Commissioner McCartney must still be waiting for "a good fall of rain to wash away the mud." Meanwhile nothing has occurred to lead to the belief that the Commissioner has thought of the simple expedient of opening the sluices and washing some of the streets. His dependence on the sun to melt the snow after the first fall was not a success, and his trust in the rain to do the work of his Department seems, so far, an equal failure.

for twenty-one years, during which time she made no complaint, Mrs. Margaret Joyce, of Onehundred-and-thirty-fifth-st. and St. Ann's-ave., had her husband summoned to the Morrisania Court yesterday to charge him with abandonment. Joyce an Irish agitator, who lives in East Fifteenth-

Mrs. Joyce is fifty-five years old, and her husband is sixty. They were married during the war, and they became separated in 1877, since which time neither had seen the other until yesterday. Mrs. Joyce told Magistrate Wentworth that her husband went to Ireland in 1874, and that he did not return until 1871, when he left her and had not seen her since. She said that he had not contributed a cent for her support since the separation, and that for some time before that he had not supported her or the children.

Joyce declared that his wife had been living with another man.
